Volodymyr Zelensky to Receive the Coveted Charlemagne Prize

6–8 minutes

Global political events have recently morphed into the Theatre of the Absurd.

Many thanks to Hellequin GB for translating this article from JournalistenWatch. The translator's comments are in square brackets:

That's all that was needed: Charlemagne Prize for Zelensky
Volodymyr Zelensky is to receive the Charlemagne Prize in May. In the Coronation Hall of the Aachen City Hall. Probably no one there can remember where the Charlemagne Prize got its name from. A look at the Charlemagne situation.

by Max Erdinger

Who gave the Charlemagne Prize its name? Is it from Charles the coke maker? From Charles the comedian? From Charles the Unconscionable? Charles the aloof maybe? — No. The Charlemagne Prize takes its name from Charlemagne (748-814). That was quite a bustle. He managed to create a vast state entity for the first time since the fall of Western Rome. He defeated the Lombards, conquered the Avar Empire, secured the eastern borders of his vast empire against the Slavs and in the southwest against the Moors, and even Christianized the Saxons after a long war in 804. When he became king, his empire encompassed almost the entirety of today's France and half of today's German territory. When he died it had almost doubled its size and Charlemagne had been Emperor for fourteen years. From king to emperor. [An overly power-hungry, greedy, and religious genocidal maniac, in my eyes. That makes it the perfect prize for these power-hungry, greedy, ideological retarded genocidal maniacs.]

What does that have to do with Zelensky? — Exactly: nothing. Nothing at all. His empire is not expanding; it is shrinking. Also, he is not Christianizing anyone, he is de-Christianizing the Orthodox church in his developing country. He also has it bombed back to the Stone Age. In short: Zelensky is an absolute failure. If you really wanted to give the Charlemagne Prize to someone from their corner of the world, you should have chosen Vladimir Putin. At least he's expanding properly, and overall he's a more dignified person than the trained comedian from Kiev. Putin is clearly more emperor than the purchased pro-American king and dick pianist Zelensky. So they chose the wrong person in Aachen to give the Charlemagne Prize. Of course they wouldn't contest that in Aachen. And in Berlin.

So what is this guy supposed to get the Charlemagne Prize for? — No idea. The Charlemagne Prize of the City of Aachen has been awarded since 1950 to personalities who have made a contribution to the unity of Europe. Personalities, not questionable figures. Unity of Europe? — Zelensky? — Nope.

The question of why the Original Chief-Ukrainer should receive the Charlemagne Prize is definitely easier to answer. The prize cannot defend itself against being awarded. It is not awarded to Zelensky because he deserves it, but because the awardees want to pretend that they have been on the right side for years. Or more pathetically: On the right side of history. But that is grossly wrong. They're probably awarding the Charlemagne Prize to Zelensky because they have to act as if they couldn't have known any better. It's a kind of self-exculpation award ceremony along the lines of: We've all screwed up a lot, Zelensky most of all — and that's why he gets the prize. It will probably be the last time that the city of Aachen honors someone with the Charlemagne Prize. Because: What decent person would allow himself to be decorated with it in the future, knowing that Zelensky has already received it? — Precisely. None. Bodo Ramelow [Minister-President of Thuringia] maybe. Or Annalena Baerbock [current Foreign Minister]. They don't care what they are awarded with, the main thing is prize and press coverage. Everyone else would say: kiss my...

So far it is not certain whether Zelensky will even come to Germany in May. Because that collides with his date for the major Ukrainian offensive. He would not like to miss his victorious major offensive at home. It is said that they had collected masses of drones, his own. They then want to use them to expand their war into Russian territory. One will soon have to speak of "Zelensky's war of aggression". But the Russians will presumably be faster, so that not much will remain of the major Ukrainian offensive.

Ursula von der Leyen and Olaf "the Decent" Scholz are planned as eulogizers in Aachen. In Aachen, these are really important personalities, very different from Beijing and Washington. It's a pity that in all likelihood Annalena Baerbock won't give a speech. That would have been a nice gesture, since she herself had already received an award in Aachen. Only this year. The carnival order "Against Deadly Seriousness".

The head of the Charlemagne Prize Directorate, Jürgen Linden: "We want the event to be understood primarily as an act of solidarity with Zelensky and the entire people of Ukraine". That's what it says in the Aachener Zeitung. This means that the Charlemagne Prize has recently been awarded out of solidarity with a corrupt person and out of solidarity with a people who allow themselves to be led to the slaughter by this and other corrupt people after having been cheated of the fruits of the natural wealth of their own country for years. The prize goes to a Zelensky, whose own troop of soldiers would now like to rip out his intestines. The award to Zelensky is given out of solidarity with a “Model Democrat”. Mockery and travesty...

Cartoon: [Zelensky, “Democracy is...”]

Of course, one would be wrong to assume that the office of the Nobel Peace Prize Committee in Oslo, at the same time as the award was being presented to Zelensky in Aachen, would release wanted posters with the likenesses of Boris Johnson, Liz Truss, Mateusz Morawiecki, Joe Biden, Lindsey Graham, Victoria Nuland and to other war planners and mongers of “Western values”. The war in Ukraine was planned and provoked long in advance in the “West of Values” — and the perpetrators are now meeting in Aachen for the award ceremony to Zelensky. This is roughly to be understood as the mafia’s kiss of death.

Who didn’t like this article at all? — The Zelensky.

Afterword from the translator:

The third stanza of the Lower Saxony song:

*“Once on the blooming red heather thousands of men died.
For their loyalty with Lower Saxony’s they met with the Frankish Curse*.*

*Thousands of brothers fell at the hands of the hangman.
Many thousands of brothers for their Lower Saxony country...”*

* means Charlemagne

(Anthem of Lower Saxony + English translation)

And already the planned Charlemagne Prize award to Zelensky makes a certain unintended sense, now, doesn’t it?
